Alive! May Issue Is Reviewed Through Eyes of a Young Girl

I read my Daddy's newspaper again and I think the picture of the Skippy dog having a birthday party was cool. Is the lady Michelle with the hat always going to all the places? She should watch cartoons like me.

I feel sad for the horse that was passed out in the field. My mommy says the horse will be okay now.

It is cool that Daddy gets to work with army men and women like Georgina Baldwin and Hector Barrios. Lewis the Mule is funny looking. I like his funny teeth.

Mother's Day Feature Reminds Us That We Are All Fortunate

It was nice to see the Happy Mother's Day page in the May issue of the Alive! newspaper. Everyone seems happy and fortunate to have their mothers. I hope you have this column again next year. By the way, some of the mothers are so young! I'm so jealous.

The Club Presents the Case Of Billy the Missing Golfer

Does anyone know what happened to that fellow, William "Billy Clubs" Greene? He had been bragging for months on the Letters to the Editor about how great of a golfer he was and that he was going to win all the City golf tournaments. But as far as my buddies know at the 19th annual Building and Safety Golf Tournament, he was a no show. What happened? I think he decided to back down. A bunch of us were looking forward to seeing how good he really was.

Oh Billy! Where are you?

Coloring Contest Was More Than Fun, It Was Therapy

Hello to the staff of the City Employees Club of Los Angeles. I have been on disability leave for almost three months now and I do miss swinging by there to pick up my movie tickets, amusement park and See's chocolate gift certificates.

The reason I am writing is to thank you for thinking of putting up this Adult Coloring Contest. My chemo session seemed very short since I worked on my entry to the contest while they're administering the medication on me.

The coloring took my mind off the process! Thank you, and I wish any other contestant well.

You Never Know Where You'll Meet Former City Employees

Hello Alive! staff, I just wanted to thank you once again for being so kind as to print what I write. Your paper is becoming quite the talk amongst my girlfriends, several who are fellow City employee retirees.

I recently embarked on quite a journey, five states in seven days, all on one those super duper tour buses. Me and the girls decided we needed to get out town for a spell. We toured North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana. You know how they say that we live in a small world, well here's proof: We stopped for fuel in a very quaint and tiny town called Clark Fork (I can't remember which state it was in, maybe some of your readers have heard of it). When Sue and I (Sue and I are best of friends, attached to the hip as they say) went into the general store to buy some soda pop, we accidentally knocked over a fishing pole that was propped up against the counter. When the pole's owner dashed from his table to save it from a "certain death," at least that's the expression he had on his face, we bumped into each other. Well, to make a long story short, we got to talking, and laughing (I think Sue took a liking to him). Turns out, the fisherman used to work for the City. Can you believe that! Way out in the middle of nowhere, a City employee. He said his name was Jack Clements and he used to work at the Library Department. He was a very kind, warm and caring individual, and meeting him brought back fond memories of working for the greatest City on the planet.

Well, gotta go volunteer at my church. Bye for now.

Deal From the Ticket Guy Better Than He's Ever Had

I just wanted to let the Club know that I went to the Dodger game May 18 with the tickets my work buddy bought from the Ticket Guy. Let me say that the seats were incredible! These were field level seats, and my kids were in awe to be able to see the players so close up.

I have been working for the City for 20 years and I don't think I have ever had a chance to buy these tickets at these prices with any City organization or anyone else. You can't beat $23 field level tickets for two games! I even saw the Club name on the vision board.

Was it me or was the Ticket Guy there? I wish I knew for sure because I wanted him to sign my baseball, too. Thanks Club and Ticket Guy.
