Alive! editor John Burnes holds his copy of the newspaper in the brand-new Busch Stadium in St. Louis, in a game against the arch-rivals Chicago Cubs. "The hot dogs were good, the view was great, and the Cubs lost, so all is right with the world," he said.

"Here is a picture during a cruise my husband Ron and I took to Hawaii. We were at Diamond Head, which was so green and beautiful it was hard to believe we were in the middle of a volcano.

"The current name was given to the crater by British sailors in the 1800s. When they first saw the crater at a great distance, the calcite crystals in the lava rock appeared to glimmer in the sunlight. The sailors mistakenly thought there must be diamonds in the soil."
