

Story and photos by Noelle Kauffman, Club Counselor

On March 16, LAFD and LAPD presented their 10th annual local St. Baldrick's fundraiser for childhood cancers research. The event was held at Fire Station 89.

Throughout the day, policemen, firefighters, and the public were invited to have their heads shaved for a fantastic cause! There was a blood and bank marrow drive available for participation as well as a free IHOP pancake and sausage breakfast provided. Entertainment for the kids included magicians, face painters, and Police and Fire apparatuses. What another successful St. Baldrick's fundraiser it was!

Special thanks go to Club Members Firefighter Danny Wu and Lt. Greg Doyle for their commitment and passion for this cause.

Firefighter Danny Wu, 12 years of City service, Club Member, helped shave the head of Fire Chief Brian Cummings.

LAPD/LAFD

Cancer survivor Ryan Compton, son of Officer Jason Compton, 10 years of City service, helped shave the head of volunteer Marycruz Puga, Fire Fraternity Phi Pi Alpha.

Life Shavers

Police, Firefighters host 10th annual St. Baldrick's fundraiser to fight childhood cancers. Fire Chief participates.

Firefighter Danny Wu, 12 years of City service, Club Member.

LAPD and LAFD representatives, from left: Lt. Greg Doyle, 22 years of City service, Club Member; Fire Chief Brian Cummings; and Officer Jason Compton, 10 years, with his son Ryan, posing with members of the community at the 2013 St. Baldrick's Fundraiser.

Volunteers of all ages got their head shaved.

Lt. Greg Doyle, 22 years of City service, Club Member.

From left: Motor Officer Chris Barlow, 15 years of City service; Mark Cronin, Director of LA Police Protective League; and Officer Jason Compton, 10 years.

From left: Officer Jason Compton, 10 years of City service; and Officer Ken Johnson, 10 years.

Firefighter Paul Duke, 10 years of City service, got his head shaved.

