Public Works/Sanitation Refuse Collection Supervisor Kenneth Lampton was recognized at the April 17 Board of Public Works meeting with a certificate for his quick and decisive actions in providing first aid to his colleague, Refuse Collection Truck Operator II Randy Armour, who had suffered a serious injury. By Kenneth coming to his aid in a short time frame, Randy's injury was kept under control and saved his life.

According to an account by Daniel McKay, Public Works, last December, RCTO Randy Armour was attempting to unload televisions from his E-waste route when he fell onto a very sharp tube on the back of a television, causing a severe laceration to the back of his upper left leg. As a result, he was losing blood very rapidly and fortunately was able to jump down off of the back of the box van and come to the front of the yard on the street in front of the clerical office, where he asked two community service workers for help. They came into the office and notified Daniel McKay that a driver was hurt and to come quickly. They led him to Randy. Daniel ran back into the clerical office and had the staff call the paramedics and simultaneously saw Supervisor Kenny Lampton, who acted very quickly, removing his belt and tying it around Randy's leg to stop the bleeding. with Randy holding the belt until the paramedics arrived. The Fire Department took Randy to Northridge Memorial Hospital and said that he should be okay, thanks to Supervisor Lampton stopping the bleeding when he did.

The Club congratulates Kenny Lampton for his quick work in possibly saving a life, and wishes good health to Randy Armour.
